You asked:

The question I am currently considering is 'are opportunities for employment in the IAPT programme more available to CBT practitioners than ECfD, IPT or DIT practitioners?' One measure of this might be a comparison of posts for those roles advertised on NHS Jobs over a given period of time. I am hoping that I might be able to obtain that data through NHS jobs, if it is available from the IT system that NHS Jobs operates. I am aware that such posts do get advertised on NHS jobs, and that from my experience CBT posts are more prevalent than ECfD, IPT or DIT. I would greatly appreciate your advice on this matter; even if the data is not available, as I can then demonstrate that I have addressed the issue in my research.

If this data is extractable, and available I would have to consider what period of time to search [IAPT has been active since 2008] and which terms to use in any search, as different employers can advertise posts using different descriptions i.e. Interpersonal Therapist; Interpersonal Psychotherapist; IPT Therapist; IPT Practitioner. Again, I would value any advice you could offer.

The attached file contains a list of adverts published between 4 March 2014 to 12 September 2018 where the job title contains the words, phrases or abbreviations requested above. Tab 2 of the file contains a list of terms excluded from the report as there were a lot of vacancies picked up by the abbreviated terms (such as (DIT)) which seemed to be irrelevant.

If any of the terms that have been excluded may be relevant to the vacancies you are looking for please let us know and we will re-run the report with the term(s) included.

The file contains the following information: organisation name, job title, pay scheme, band, salary, published and expiry dates.
