You asked:

We are looking for some accurate statistics of coil (both copper & hormonal) waiting times within health boards around the UK.

If you could please share any accurate data on your coil waiting times with us, that would be very much so appreciated.

Our response:

Patients are booked for a coil consultation over the phone generally within 48 hours after making contact. The patient will then be asked to attend chlamydia screening. It can take up to 3 weeks for the screening and result. Following the result the patient is booked for coil procedure in the next available appointment across sites, usually within 1 week.

Therefore, the maximum total waiting time for coil fitting is currently up to 4 weeks.
