You asked:

For the last three financial years, how much has the Health Board spent on all types of diversity and inclusion training to its employees?

Our response:

Cwm Taf Morgannwg University Health Board (CTMUHB) does not currently have a budget for training (this includes for diversity and inclusion training). All of its training and development offers are accessed through internal delivery via the Learning and Development and the Organisational Development and Inclusion team; and external training offered through Health Education and Improvement Wales (HEIW) and any mandatory training via Electronic Staff Record (ESR) developed nationally.

In addition - over the past three years, Cwm Taf Morgannwg University Health Board (CTMUHB) have invested (by exception) into the Diverse Cymru Programme linked to the Anti-racist action plan as supported by Welsh Government. This was at a cost of £4,500 in 2022/2023 financial year.
