Our response:

CTM have one Long COVID rehabilitation service in the health board. It is called the Primary Fatigue Service. It is a service for people with long COVID and ME/ chronic fatigue who are over the age of 16. From a long COVID perspective we treat symptoms that develop during or after an infection consistent with COVID-19, which have continued for more than 12 weeks and are not explained by an alternative diagnosis.

There is not a long COVID service in the Health Board for people below the age of 16. Should children under the age of 16 present with symptoms of/ diagnosed with long COVID then they need to be referred to the speciality team under which their particular symptoms would be best managed. There was ambition to set up a paediatric long COVID service but unfortunately, we were unable to recruit on a large scale and therefore had to withdraw this plan earlier this year.

The only long COVID service within the Health Board, the Primary Fatigue Service remains open. There are no plans for this to close in the near future. There is recurrent funding for this service.
